Dear colleagues and readers of Científica Dental,

This is the sixth consecutive year in which this special supplement in English of Científica Dental appears. This edition includes the best work published in 2019 in the categories of best scientific article, best case study and best publication by new author. Six works are presented which are the finalists in these categories. The subject-matter of the works is up-to-date and varied. Our readers can access them free of charge in the website www.cientificadental.es.

In the exceptional circumstances we are living through, in which online communication forms part of our daily lives, Científica Dental wishes to be present contributing to the knowledge of our readers. For this reason we hope the edition is of interest to you.

Finally we would like to thank our authors for the great quality of the work they have presented, and also the publishers and copy editors whose work is essential for the production of each edition of this journal, and of course our readers for whom this work is intended.

Hoping life returns to normal soon, we wish you a happy summer.
